

Teen Responders Replication Site Information

What is a TR Replication Site?

A Teen Responders Replication site is an officially endorsed host for Teen Responders workshops. These sites have been trained, equipped, and signed on to be a host site in-line with the mission and vision of Teen Responders.

What is does it take to become one?

There are a few things an organization must do in order to become an official Replication Site:

1. Attend a Replication Training Event (train the trainer)
2. Recruit at least 1 mental health professionals to help lead in your community
3. Sign the Contract, agreeing to meet and uphold certain expectations
4. Reporting post-workshop about how the event went
5. Pay the one-time fee: $850 (funding and scholarships available)

What do I get out of it?

Once you have done the above steps, you will receive several things to help you be successful:

1. Training from the founders and current leadership of Teen Responders
2. A curriculum document that is ready to go and can be adapted to your context
3. Slides for all portions of the workshop
4. Logos and marketing material (handouts, videos, etc.)
5. A resource list, complete with links for where to purchase
6. Promotion of your event on the Teen Responders website and an official endorsement
7. Two 30-minute meetings with Teen Responders leadership for planning and problem-solving

Would my organization be a good fit as a Replication Site?

Here are some questions to ask yourself as you are discerning whether or not your group will be a good fit:

1. Is our organization committed to caring for teens and improving their lives?
2. Is there a person or a group from our organization that is willing to be the representative, who can drive the program as it goes along?
3. Do we have relationships in the community we can leverage to strengthen this program? If no, can we build them?
4. Specifically, do we think we'll be able to recruit a mental health professional to help with this work?
5. Are we interested in a one-time event or to do continual work?
6. What are our motivations for wanting to be a Teen Responders Replication Site?
